Comments:

1. First of all, thank you for meeting with Andy and myself.
2. One of the reasons, other than the obvious, for my trip was because of my brother's past actions towards my father. From the beginning, I was not told the truth about Dad's condition, so I was on the next plane to see for myself as Dad sounded very normal to me. Andy told me that basically Dad was going to be sitting and staring out a window the rest of his days as Dad had lost his "cornflakes". That bothered me as he was not giving Dad a chance to recuperate but wanted Dad out of his way as I guess he thought Dad had lived long enough.
3. Andy's comment he made in your office totally shocked me. Andy told us he got a call from Dad's roommate and chose to "ignore" the call for help "for whatever reason" quote/unquote. The call was made on Tuesday and the next contact Andy had with his father was on Sunday, Christmas Day, after Dad drove himself to my sister's in Gordon, when he was in no condition to drive as it was obvious an infection had already set in. His attitude was that he didn't care whether Dad lived or died.....
4. Also disturbing, was the fact that neither he nor my sister were concerned about leaving an 82 year old man (their father!) alone for the weekend after taking him out of Emergency. Andy described Dad as being white and shaky and made no arrangements to have someone come in and monitor him as he knew his roommate is not around on the weekend. Anyone will tell you that in the case of a concussion, it is very important to monitor someone and to wake them up every hour and then close monitoring after that...I still am appalled at the fact that he was not looked after better than that after being discharged. It would have been a simple matter of calling anyone in from Elie to stay with him or come over to ensure he was okay. It's not like Andy did not describe in vivid detail exactly what Dad had been through!
5. Also, I heard Andy make statements to the nurses implying that my Dad's state of mind and well being was next to an invalid or one that needed psychiatric attention for the rest of his life! Commit - committed, strong words yes, but truth as he had told me prior to this that he didn't want to take care of Dad -that I could have him! For the past several years, Andy has been shutting my Dad out of his life in one way or another, including not allowing him entrance into his own home. I have no other alternative, the facts and truth present themselves to me. My conscience does not permit me to look the other way or to sit idly by while someone's very life is ripped from them, their hopes and future taken away all because of someone not wanting them to come back home. Andy's has shown his true colours, these actions and intentions are selfish and predatory in nature, not ones of love,

Mr. Bradley,

I just spoke to Dad's 45 year old roommate - Garth who confirmed that the plant in Elie is presently dismantling and that he will probably be leaving in mid-February unless he is made an offer he can't refuse from the new owners.

Contrary to what Andy told my father, Garth has no intentions of moving his wife and kids into Dad's home. His wife works in the Health field in Neepawa and his daughter is finishing her last year of high school and definitely not switching schools. The other daughter is already in University.

In talking to Dad, he felt he did not have any choice but to go to the Manor in St. Eustache because of what Andy told him... that his space was needed on the farm.

Garth's cellular # is [redacted] and he is also of the same opinion that Dad would not be happy in the manor as he is too independant and active. The # at Dow Chemical where he works is [redacted] 90.

He mentioned that he was very concerned about Dad's health and more importantly about Dad's ability to drive when he had called my brother who did nothing about the call. Also Dad had forgotten to lock the front door, which is out of character for him and left the interior van lights on. Also Dad told him that he could remember things in the '40's but had trouble remembering what had just gone on (short-term memory) and that is what concerned Garth that he might at this point leave an element on the stove and that is why he called Andy. He too was surprised that Dad had come out of the hospital so soon considering the seriousness of the fall and bleeding, etc. His wife explained that the hospitals today are more concerned about secondary infection, in other words, the longer they stay in the hospital the more chances of getting an infection, though he said he did not necessarily buy that as his father was in for an operation, let out the next day and had a stroke and died at home a couple days later, so he is not impressed with the health system.

He also said that he could not keep up with Dad and did not know where he got his energy and could not believe when Dad told him he would be 80 years old a couple years ago as he thought he was in his mid-60's!

So again, is there anything that can be done to ensure that Dad goes home and not to the Manor at this point?

The home support could be done at either location and was recommended by the hospital initially, today he will be reassessed again.

Wrong! Garth told me he had no complaints with Dad's housekeeping. Didn't you tell me that Dad's medication was off also - so that would have been the reason for his being off. If it is people that he needs around him, why was he left on his own the weekend of his accident - so he could die? Who was caring then? Who didn't give a shit whether he lived or died? Why didn't he go to someone's home that night? Is it because he is older that he can be pushed aside. Is that what you want your kids to do with you when you are older? It appears that neither you or Andy did care after you left him at home "alone" because you didn't make sure he was taken care of at that point when he ALMOST DIED! If it were your child, husband or anyone else, that would have been standard to ensure they were monitored the first couple days - where was your concern then? That is when he needed 24/7 care not now, now he needs recuperating time - alone! In peace

Garth told me he is 45 and Dad is running circles around him daily, with the energy he has especially for his age. He thought Dad was in his mid 60's. You saw how he keeps going in the hospital, he has to use up his energy. How is he going to do that in a small room? When HE IS READY he can decide. Not because you and Andy want him out of the way do you ship him off at the first convenient occasion. He has a RIGHT to be at HOME. Let that be his decision, not the two of you railroading him off the family farm he lived all his life. You want him gone because of his age? I know a lot of healthy 90 year olds running their own lives, living on their own and enjoying life to the fullest. Dad told me in Elie at the Manor everyone knows everyone's business. Do you think he wants everyone minding his business when he is quite capable of making his own decisions?

Dad put in a new floor just a while ago according to Garth, fixed the furnace and hot water tank, in other words additional costs. Isn't that Andy's responsibility if he owns the building? Refer to the landlord/tenant act as he stands to benefit from it.

If you are concerned about his falling, they do have a life support that you put around your neck and that he can push the button and it calls for help if he needs it. A lot of my elderly clients use them nowadays. Being in a manor won't make a difference if he is in a closed up room.

You told me that Dad gets depressed closer to Christmas. Could he be thinking of family members who have died in his family at that time, like Uncle Roger, Beatrice, etc? Do you think changing locations would much matter? Isn't November just before Christmas? What difference would that make? Just means he really cared about the people he loved and that he remembers them at that time of year. Normal isn't it?

Dear Mr. Bradley,

In talking with Dad today, he has expressed an interest in being introduced to you and will be trying to contact you sometime during the day.

In the event he has difficulty reaching you (if you are in court), he would appreciate if you contacted him for an update on how the claim is proceeding.

Dad went for a driver eye examination and passed with flying colours and will be allowed to drive after a short period.

There is also a possibility that he may be released from the hospital this weekend.

Thank you.

Dear Mr. Bradley;

I am writing you with my concerns regarding any possible compensation for my father Lionel Bouchard. Dad had a Power of Attorney drawn up by his lawyer, Chris Christianson of Christianson, Christianson Jones law firm in Portage la Prairie sometime during November 2005 prior to his accident on December 16, 2005. Since the accident, my sister Marlene Legaré has been in contact with you to initiate a liability suite against the insurance company of the Blessed Sacrament Church of St. Eustache. With reservations, the majority of our family members including myself agreed to proceed on behalf of our father since he will need continuous medication to stabilize his condition for an extended period of time and will need to be closely monitored for his long term state of health.

Andy initiated personal injury suit.

FALSE!

FALSE!

I do not believe my father has made sufficient recovery to make decisions on his own. He continues to be under the doctor's supervision with a health nurse monitoring his medication and his mental state. He tires very easily and gets frustrated and confused a lot. He has clearly not made a complete recovery although he was released from the hospital into the care and supervision of the health nurse. He has clearly shown that he can be manipulated mentally. I do not believe revoking the Power of Attorney is in his best interest. I feel very strongly as a family member that Marlene's involvement has shown to be self-serving for no other reason than financial gain. The majority of the family members do not wish to have Marlene represent our father in this matter.

I ask that in the event of a favorable judgment for my father that the money be put in a Trust fund for his care and well being and not for the financial gain of any single family member.

ANDY'S!

I trust you will use your best judgment in this delicate family matter. Please respond to the family members who have and will be contacting you.

Sincerely,

André Lionel Bouchard

I am writing this letter due to the concerns I have regarding the care and financial well being of Lionel Bouchard (Dad). Regarding the unfortunate concussion that Dad sustained, I feel it is in his best interest if further financial and care decisions be determined jointly by Andy and Lynda as they have been the most directly involved in his care and well being in the past years. I feel Marlene has been irresponsible in her recent actions to stop the plans that were initiated which would see Dad placed in an assisted living environment. I believe Marlene can and will manipulate the situation and Dad for her own financial gain. She has proven to be capable of this behavior in the past. Any financial gains should be put in trust to be directed jointly by Andy and Lynda.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Dear Mr. Bradley:

My name is Helene Johnson (nee Bouchard) and am the fourth daughter of Lionel Bouchard. The reason for this email is that I have many concerns over my father's affairs. I believe that my sister Marlene Legare is not there for my father's best interest. She has lived in British Columbia for the past 35 years and has had very limited contact with our father.

[REDACTED] I believe that she is has her own personal motives for keeping Dad at home by himself and not in an assisted living establishment. My father has many times expressed his desire to live in the local Manor where he will thrive among his friends. Her false pretense of caring for our Dad has nothing but confused him.

My brother Andre and sister Lynda have always been there for our father whenever he has had any financial, personal or health issues. They have routinely visited him over the years and are well aware of his wishes. My brother Andre does not need any monetary compensation from our father as he is financially set in his own right. This is why I believe that Andre is still the right person to have Power of Attorney over my father. As a family member I feel strongly that his has nothing but our father's best interest at heart. TOTALLY OPPOSITE.

If there is a judgement settlement I believe that it should be put in a Trust fund for our father's care so that he can live the rest of his life comfortably. The majority of the family does not want to benefit financially from our father's accident. ?
what?

Thank-you for listening and I hope that this will persuade you to reconsider keeping Andre in charge of my father's affairs.

Sincerely,

Helene D. Johnson

I am writing to you with respect to a lawsuit initiated by my father Lionel Bouchard of Elie, Manitoba due to a head injury brought about by his fall this last Christmas. I understand that you have been retained by my sister Marlene Legare of Mapleridge, B.C. to represent my father in this matter.

I can strongly advise that my sister Marlene's motives are suspect, that she has misrepresented herself numerous times in the past to me and the family and I seriously question whether Marlene has my father's best interests at heart. JEARLY Deceived by information fed him.

Under no circumstances would I ever entrust my sister Marlene with anything, least of all with the care and control of our father. Over the years, she has shown herself to me as having no conscience and as being self-serving, manipulative and deceitful. EXAMPLE ?

I believe that my brother Andre Bouchard and sister Lynda Staub have done an admirable job over the years of looking after my father and they should be allowed to continue to act on his behalf. TAKING everything from their father

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

My name is Leona Bouchard (Johnston) and I did on January 29, 2006, sign my name to an urgent email addressed to Mr. David Bradley @dbradley@wilderwilder.com. I am the eldest of Lionel Bouchard's children. I did move away from Manitoba in 1968.

The content of my letter to Mr. Bradley had to do with a developing situation surrounding my father Lionel Bouchard of Elie, Manitoba. A situation of which I had no knowledge of until an urgent phone call from my brother Andre Bouchard, of Portage la Prairie, January 29th. My brother Andre Bouchard, who had not until that day initiated a phone call to me in well over 30 years, did inform me of an urgent matter regarding my father. He stated that my father was in danger and my sister Marlene Legare from B.C. had initiated a lawsuit on behalf of my father, had cleaned out my father's account, and numerous other offences against my father, apparently. Andre Bouchard assured me that the rest of my siblings were as concerned about my father's welfare as he was and urged me to get on board as well to prevent Marlene from "hurting" my father further. My brother was very convincing. I had no knowledge of what had transpired in Manitoba for months prior to this incident with my father, and had no reason to suspect anything, and was shocked to hear of my father's recent serious head injury. I heard about my father's fall and stay in the hospital months after he was allowed out of the hospital. My brother's first ever phone call to me and his sense of urgency, played a huge part in my willingness to support his endeavours to "stop" whatever "harm" my sister Marlene might incur on our father without really understanding what was actually transpiring. Andre Bouchard was not truthful with me, I was coached and I now regret penning that letter to Mr. Bradley. I have since gotten some personal insight and lots of clarity on my father's situation then and now, by observing my siblings' actions since that day, and have concluded that my father needed to be protected from his own son and daughters, whose motives, in my mind, have been suspect since 2006 and continue to be suspect, especially now, since our mother's demise, January 2007. Since January, 2006, certain family members living in rural Manitoba have shown themselves to me personally, to be deceitful, selfish and above all, greedy.

The destructive actions of certain siblings was inexcusable and their motives purely self-serving. I believe that my father's rights to continue living in his own home was denied and that he should not have been forced off his property.

It is now my strong belief, that my father was being set up and manipulated by his own children whom he trusted.

Our File No. 260005/DMB

Further to our meeting on January 27, 2006, this is to confirm that you have retained me on a contingency fee basis regarding the above captioned matter.

You will recall that you had previously executed a Power of Attorney in favour of your son, Andre Bouchard, and had instructed him both verbally and in writing pursuant to a letter of January 13, 2006 to retain counsel regarding the incident.

At our meeting on January 27, 2006, you confirmed that you wished me to act for you on the contingency fee basis, pursuant to the agreement which had been executed by Andre on your behalf.

I am enclosing herewith a copy of the letter I have concurrently forwarded to the St. Eustache Church on your behalf. I will advise you of any response received from them or their insurer in due course.

In the meantime, I also confirm your instructions that you wished to revoke Andre's Power of Attorney and appoint your daughter, Claire Demery instead. Accordingly, I had prepared a Revocation of Andre's Power of Attorney and a new Power of Attorney in favour of Claire, which you executed in my presence.

I can indicate that I have discussed the matter with Claire and have concurrently forwarded a copy of the Power of Attorney to her. If you have any questions with respect this please feel free to contact me at your convenience.

As indicated, I would be charging you a flat fee of $80.00 to prepare the new Power of Attorney and Revocation of your previous Power of Attorney. Accordingly, I am enclosing herewith my Statement of Account in this regard totalling $85.60 and trust that you will find same in order. The Account has been paid by way of the funds received from your daughter, Marlene at our recent meeting.

Wilder & Wilder,

Attn: David Bradley/Lisa

Thank you for the information obtained a week ago. However, upon returning to B.C. I noted that a copy of the power of attorney in favour of Andy Bouchard was not in the documents, nor the letter to the St. Eustache Church as referred to in the letter dated February 7, 2006, nor the statement made by Andy Bouchard on January 11, 2006 to David Bradley done in my presence as the statement made by Andy is relevant to his opposition to the Ex-parte Protection Order procured on October 31, 2009.

Also, would you please review the file for replies to any of the emails from Lynda, Leona, Claire and Jerry dated January 29, 2006 and any correspondence to the insurance company with respect to the personal injury claim as these may have relevance in some future action against Andy Bouchard.

There should also be a note from David Bradley with respect to a telephone conversation he received from Lionel Bouchard whereby David advised me he could audibly hear a male voice (Andy) giving instructions for Dad to transfer his claim to Michael Clark's office. This will go a long way in showing undue influence which Dad's lawyer is claiming in his civil action against Andy with respect to two caveats he was forced to place on his former property with respect to life estate caveats and monetary claim due to him. In other words, as complete as possible, the entire file is critical to Dad's case where Andy's actions are suspect showing his concern and that of the siblings are monetary and not for their father's health and well-being and defamatory comments made about my me to take the focus away from what they were really doing - evicting their father from his home which is the basis of his current lawsuit against these three children in particular, and the rest simply following suit based on the lies told to them by Andy and Lynda and Claire which we have other proof. However, this appears to be the most damaging to their case based on series of events that occurred at that time.

Thank you for your prompt response to this, hopefully before the file is returned to archive.

Wishing you the best of the season!
