

- Dad on the telephone while at the hospital tells me he is upset that he is being made to under go psychiatric testing, when he claims all he needs is time to heal from his concussion.
- Dad tells me that he will stand up to Andy Bouchard and Claire Demery as he has rights and Wants to go home, this after being made to sign tenant application for St. Eustache Manor.
- When Dad informs Lynda Staub by telephone that he wants to go home, Lynda Staub fires off an email stating that "we have a problem, Dad wants to go home."
- Lynda Staub was also making fun of Dad stating that he was hiding under the bed and locking himself in the bathroom which she reported as odd to the nurses. Yet at no time did she Offer to tell them that it was because they were pressuring Dad to sign papers while in the hospital, rather making him look like a basket case.
- Yet Dad knew that Andy Bouchard had asked Joe Hoffer of Woodlands Colony to sign a letter stating that Dad was not himself anymore.
- To the Huron Colony, Andy Bouchard told the boss and his wife that "dad was a-goner" which upset them as they take care of their parents.
- The next day on the Friday when I had flown in, found Dad lethargic and medicated. Nurse Admit he was given medication for "dementia" and is embarrassed. She also indicates that Despite being on the discharge list, not to fill in the prescription and to have Dad go to his Doctor who can then decide if it is necessary.
- Dad upset when he learned that he had been tricked into signing a power of attorney in favour of Andy Bouchard and Lynda Staub. Seeing as he had an appointment with David Bradley, of Wilder and Wilder in the Richardson building, he had the Will revoked and a new power of attorney which I paid for done up in Claire Demery's favour.
- Dad at home on Saturday morning is telling me how he doesn't trust Andy Bouchard. Dad Did not want to go to the banquet nor St. Eustache Manor for cake as he did not trust Andy.
- Dad tells me that Andy Bouchard has not lived up to his end of the agreement and not paying To maintain the hot water boiler, and other maintenance items to do with the house.
- Dad went into the RCMP Headingley Detachment to charge Andy Bouchard with theft of his cellular phone and his VISA card which Andy Bouchard had on his possession when arrested.
- Dad signed a complaint statement and requested a No Contact.

- At the Holiday Inn, Dad allows himself to be pushed into Lynda Staub's car and goes with Claire Demery and Lynda Staub back to the farm, despite being brought to the Holiday Inn with me. Susie Waldner was upset that he was being manhandled in that manner. Peggy Keough said that she did not want to get "involved". Margaret Bouchard gave me heck because she must have been there when Andy Bouchard arrested and told me off yet, we have never exchanged words ever!
- After Andy Bouchard was arrested, despite being assured by the RCMP that I could remain As Dad's guest, Andy faxed in title to property and RCMP ordered me off the property because Andy did not want me there – despite there being a No Contact against him which was wrong On RCMP's part as they knew the situation before hand and were supportive of both Dad and I.
- When I went to pick up my suitcase, Lynda Staub had already put it in the snow outside and locked the front door. Claire Demery was there as was Angie Bouchard, Andy's wife, and she should not have been in the house as there was a No Contact, direct or indirect against Andy for both Dad and I.
- Disturbing is the fact that Dad did not insist that I stay as I was out from B.C. for a couple Days only and had gotten Dad as per his request, now he was telling me to leave! Lynda Staub missed work to stay overnight. Disturbing is the fact that Dad "asked me to go stay with the Ma Tantes" in Winnipeg. I stayed at a motel and the phone rang off the hook the next day with Lynda Staub calling, breaching the No Contact as she was calling for Andy and wanted me to drop the Theft Charges in exchange for an agreement they would not honour.
- The next day I negotiated an agreement between Andy & Angie Bouchard, Dad, Lynda Staub Claire Demery so that Dad could remain in his home (which I immediately discovered they had no intention of honoring) as Lynda Staub insisted that I not stay overnight to caregive to Dad until home care came in on Wednesday (and then it was only to check on his meds).
- On February 13, 2006, Dad went with Andy Bouchard, Lynda Staub and Claire Demery in order to get Peace Bonds which were denied. After all the trouble that I went to, Dad did not insist the agreement be honored, instead he tried to get a peace bond against me. The application stated he was concerned for his safety, yet on the stand he admitted I had not threatened him in any way.
- Disturbing is the fact that Dad actually signed a peace bond application when they were the Ones who cleaned out his house which he complained to me about and destroyed his papers.
- When I went to drop off his prune juice, Dad refused to open the door but a couple inches, And he looked terrified of me. Apparently he and Roland Bouchard called the RCMP. However, minutes before at 9:15 p.m., I met Andy Bouchard's truck leaving Dad's house, so Andy must have terrified Dad with lies to have Dad that afraid of me.

- At the Chicken Chef, Dad came out and got in his van and was totally terrified of me. He started backing up when unsafe as I was standing with the door open and had to jump On the step up to avoid being dragged backwards. His eyes were terrified once again. The next day, Andy Bouchard drove Dad to the RCMP in Headingley to charge me with me with assault, which he admitted on the stand never occurred. Despite knowing this was untrue, he had a year to drop the charges but chose not to.
- At the St. Eustache Manor, Dad was told to lock his door, put on the chain and not answer The telephone unless he recognized the # and my # was posted on the telephone. Dad's # Was unlisted. However, Uncle Laurent Houde went into Dad's room and called his own Phone which displayed Dad's #. When I called Dad later, Susie was there and he did not Want to speak to me and Susie was against me supposedly believing the lie that "I had cleaned out all Dad's money at the bank" which she believed for a couple years until I straightened out the story to her.
- Susie had been asked by Andy Bouchard to look after Dad. She packed a suitcase and waited and waited and Andy Bouchard did not pick her up or call to cancel...
- When I went to deal with the charges of assault in May 2006, I learned from my lawyer that Dad was in court trying to convince the judge that I needed psychiatric evaluation (along with Andy). This bothered me tremendously knowing that Dad was perjuring himself to the court.
- Later that summer, Dad went around town telling the community that I had mental problems, and other lies as well.
- The next summer Dad had his cousin Jules Chartrand call me and that is when I told him that there was a No Contact between the two of us. Jules told me that Dad told him that Andy Bouchard was doing cocaine and that he had taken advantage of him over and over.
- The next summer, Dad went to Crown McDuff who had tears in her eyes after Dad told her the truth about Andy Bouchard, Lynda Staub and Claire Demery.
- To protect herself, it appears that Crown McDuff must have called them up because Dad's visits to Auntie Madeleine who had been helping stopped immediately which infuriated her.
- However, the No Contact was removed in Port Coquitlam in November/December 2007. Dad immediately called me unhappy at having been kicked out of his house. He flew out in February 2008 after changing his Will and Power of Attorney to Auntie Madeleine his sister. Having to go to court, I sent Dad down to Yuma for his safety for one month.

- Dad recounted what had been happening but was vague at times and I felt he knew more than what he was willing to disclose, that he was afraid to tell the whole truth.
- Dad told me that he witnessed stolen combine parts in Andy Bouchard's shed on the property.
- When picking up Daniel's Dad and wife, Dad could not wait to go to their vehicle and tell them that "we were killing him". Instead of appreciating all that we were doing for him, he was stabbing us in the back as we were not the ones who evicted him from his home and he allowed it.
- When ever we met with relatives in B.C., Dad did not stand up for himself and complain about how bad he was treated, he basically left it up to me and did not back up his own story of horror.
- Dad admitted he must have been drugged as he had no recollection of certain events. When I tried hypnosis for Dad, in one instance he did not speak up for himself, and let himself be convinced by a complete stranger that he should never go back home. Yet he admitted he was not happy and after the meeting told me that he wanted to stay with his bachelor cousin in New Westminster Fred Bouchard for a while....stabbing me in the back. It was obvious the way the hypnotist spoke that Dad had turned on me, making me to be the culprit, not those children who evicted him.
- Encouraged Dad to keep in touch with his family and friends. Friends were not an issue whatsoever. But whenever it came to calling his children, Dad would put up a big fuss, saying that he did not want to bother them, that Andy was already in bed and had to work the next day, and his voice trembled whenever he called them, especially Lynda Staub after she accused him of child abuse.
- Dad would never stand up for his rights, he would call people and ask them if it was his home to the point of looking stupid to the community who despised Andy Bouchard and which Dad knew about but could not stand up.
- Dad told me that Andy Bouchard had cheated at cards at Gillis Garage yet defended his actions.
- Dad told me that he walked in at the original farmhouse and found Andy in bed with a girl while his wife was at work at the Municipality of Cartier in Elie. Dad said he kept the secret but one can imagine the terror he must of felt because of Andy's rage.
- Dad acted nice in front of strangers, yet that was not his normal character around his family.

Dad used to beat on Mom, and chase her outside in the winter, turn down the thermostat and drink heavily on weekends and beat her up. The children used to huddle terrified they would be next. Dad loaded his shotgun at one point and swore he would kill them all. Mom was at her mother's in Winnipeg and fortunately someone drove in just when she arrived and saved what could have been a deadly scene. Jerry Bouchard was suicidal and broke out in skin rash as a result of the trauma of protecting Mom after Mom moved out of the house.

- Beatrice's testimony confirms that Dad was Dr. Jekyll, Mr. Hyde and that as a father he Terrified the children.

- Dad signed affidavit after affidavit confirming his bad treatment at the hands of his children, Yet when a reporter was brought in from the Winnipeg Free Press, Prescott James, Dad Refused to tell the whole truth, stating that issues began only after he was hospitalized, covering up for Andy. When it came time to take a picture, Dad did not want to until upset Auntie Madeleine Fillion and Susie Waldner convinced him to do so. In any case, the story Never ran because the new reporter told me that he was threatened that he would be fired by Andy Bouchard if he ran the story when he asked for his side of the story.
- When at Susie Waldner's, Dad told Jose that things were all fine until he fell, once again lieing to her.
- While living with me, Dad told me that the issue was between Andy and I and not him which Infuriated me, because that is what he read in one of their affidavits.
- Also Dad seemed to believe their affidavits which were wraught with lies as opposed to the truth.
- Dad believed it when Helene Johnson, his daughter from the States, told him that he had no medical insurance, no driver's licence, no vehicle insurance, no mailbox, this despite having the proof in his hands!!!
- It seems that whatever they told him, he believed and made me out to the be the bad guy.
- He was telling the community that he was waiting for his keys, not that he was unable To stand against Andy Bouchard!. Saying it's my home isn't it? As if they would fight for him.
- Dad is so gullible I was so upset when I found out that he allowed Andy Bouchard to jump in the new van and pull out and read the registration papers. Then I found out that Dad refused to drive the new van, drove his old van "because the others were jealous of his new van" – never once taking into consideration the fact that I put out hard earned money out of love for him and he was more concerned how they felt than I.

- To add insult to injury, Mike Slegers and Andy Bouchard convinced Dad that a tree might fall on the van, so Dad himself drove the van into Mike Slegers shed, and then proceeded to barricade it with a fifth wheel and his boat.
- Instead of trying to get away, Dad remained at Mike's when Mike forced him to move into The house out of his fifth-wheel and told Dad the motorhome could not be parked on his Land as against municipal regulations and Dad believed him! Yet when Mike was trying to extort $5,000 from him for a broken hose and lost diesel illegal purple gas, then Mike wanted Dad to bring the motorhome on his property so he could confiscate it Dad at least figured that out.
- The summer of 2008, Dad did not try to stand up for his rights, but went along with what Andy Bouchard and Mike Slegers were promising him, a house in Elie. Dad should have known they would never honour their promise and only a ploy to keep him from returning to court to get his possession order days later.
- The end result is that he did not tell his lawyer that the septic had just been replaced and the well was not feasible, this according to Andy Bouchard, when Dad knew the truth that those were excuses only not to allow him to return home. So it wasn't suitable for Dad, yet Andy had a tenant in there, someone Andy pulled out of the Elie Hotel to block Dad's return to his home.
- When Dad's lawyer offered him a way out of the prison that Andy and Mike had put him in, frustrating is the fact that Dad told Winston that he wanted to "think about it" to accept the help to get away from them and to go to B.C. temporarily.
- Dad told his story to the private investigators who correctly surmised that Andy Bouchard had taken financial advantage of his father for years and that they felt an audit should be done. when Dad arrived in B.C., he looked horrible, beaten down and put through the mill with only the clothes on his back, without his bag containing his pills, passport, traveler's cheque, etc. which Mike refused to release to the private investigators.
- As anticipated, both Mike Slegers and Andy Bouchard went to the police and tried to charge Dad's lawyer with "abducting" him.
- When Dad returned in mid-August 2008, every time I walked into the kitchen unexpectedly, Dad would jump out of his chair out of terror. He was not like that before he left in May. The only conclusion I can arrive at is that Dad would have been physically threatened, possibly with a shotgun to cause him to be so jumpy and paranoid. This is also confirmed when Dad was driven to Susie Waldner and Johnny Lafreniere when Dad was so terrified he refused to speak in the presence of Mike Slegers and insisted that he talk in Mike's truck with Susie and at that point would not confide in her what had occurred as she knew something was terribly wrong and that he had been terrorized.

- At his doctor's office in Maple Ridge, when I brought it to the doctor's attention that Dad had lost 50 pounds on his doctor's instructions from Elie, and had him reassess his pills, Dad was mad when the doctor cancelled all but three pills, one for water, aspirin and Prostrate. Dad was upset with me in the office and swearing under his breath at me as he enjoyed getting the doctor's sympathy.'
- At Auntie Madeleine's, Dad was more concerned about bad-mouthing me than in putting The blame on Andy Bouchard Lynda Staub and Claire Demery.
- Dad did the same thing at Susie's, the minute I was not in the room, he was bad-mouthing and blaming me for his problems, saying that the fight was between Andy and I!
- On the telephone, I had to monitor his conversations while living with me, because often Dad did not hear properly and simply agreed with what the other party said, at times making me look bad to them.
- Dad's lawyer informed me that he would not put Dad on the stand as Dad did not stand and was deliberately being vague in his answers, this despite having an excellent memory, which meant according to the lawyer that Dad was afraid to testify against Andy Bouchard.
- Lawyer told me that I did all I could to help Dad and that there was nothing more I could do.
- Dad was warned by his lawyer and his friends in B.C., not to return to Manitoba until legally having his possession order. Dad while I was away, decided to fly back to Winnipeg to Peggy Keough's against everyone's advice, this without telling me, a slap in the face after the 6 ½ years work I had put in on his behalf.
- No sooner than Dad was back, that he had the protection orders removed and one place don me, but not before complaining to Age and Opportunity and the RCMP with false allegations once again, thereby perjuring himself once again in court.
- Dad went and bad mouthed me to Susie Waldner to the point where she will take my calls.
- Dad was told not to contact youngest daughter in Winnipeg after arriving in Manitoba. In December, 4 months later, he broke his silence and called her for a ride to a nephews wedding.

- Then Dad denied to her that he was never told to not contact her after the others learned she had taken him to the wedding.
- Dad complained to Doreen that he hated where he lived, drugs addicts, drunks, welfare and Mentally incompetent people all around him, and far out for seniors to drive to. Doreen Went to a lot of work to take him to his doctor to get a note from him, to make application to Have him moved from that Manitoba Housing complex to the same one that Susie lives in on Portage Avenue in St. James, only to sign a paper stating that Lynda Staub was in charge of his Housing, stabbing Doreen in the back by so doing.
- Further Dad did not phone to inform Doreen that Uncle Fern had passed away and that Mike Slegers had also, this after Doreen took Dad to Elie several times to visit his brother-in-law.
- Doreen offered to get Dad's van. Dad simply got mad and said "leave it alone". Yet he was willing to borrow Doreen's car to get around with in the country. In the city, he was forced to take a bus at his age.
- Instead of insisting that he retain his same doctors, Dad agreed to go to a brand new doctor, one of Lynda's choosing....
- Dad had a choice of where to live. Yet at the onset, he was in a "safe" place against me and that there would be no charges against me, said to throw me off, as when he was in court with Peggy Keough and Margaret Bouchard, a sheriff was also present as indicated by the Justice who presided over the telephone case conference.
- Dad complained to my daughter in B.C. and made her believe he was maltreated and get her support to assist in returning to Manitoba and making it like it was all my idea and that the fight was between Andy and I and not he and Andy.
- At no point did Dad ever acknowledge the cost associated in doing his work, his trips to the States, his food, trips to the doctor, eye specialist, cataract specialist, lab, monthly doctor visits, visits to see his brother in New Westminster, cousins in Coquitlam, to play bingo and to go the Casino as well, renting larger premises to accommodate his comfort.
- Not once did he ever admit that it was his inability to stand up to Andy Bouchard throughout the years that lead to his eviction. Rather he shifted the blame on me for all his problems.
- It was my refusal to accept that his driving days were over, taking him to a cataract specialist which saved his licence, after procuring new glasses, losing weight, new passport, new birth certificate.
